U. S. TROOPS BEGIN MOVING BACK TO EVACUATE ITALY

Moore, commander of the U.S. 88th Division consulted American Ambassador James Dunn in Rome.

A short time later, Gen. Moore ordered his troops to withdraw hastily from the Morgan Line to the so-called French line which becomes the provisional border between Italy and Yugoslavia.

The movement of American troops was carried out by 11 p. m. They still were close enough to hear the random volleys fired by the Yugoslavs when they reached the demarcation line.

An hour after moving up to the Italian frontier, other Yugoslav troops began occupation of the Istrian peninsula port city of Pola which was also ceded to the Tito government.

BEING PREPARED Friends are a wonderful thing. This would be a very unhappy world if it was not for our friends, and it is very proper to think of them, when we need them most, but there are times when it is much better financially, as well as saving a lot of worry, to be able to call on someone who is fitted to do the work we need done, en account of experience and having supplies needed for emergency.

There are times when we all love to do things for our friends, then there are times that we have work to be done that must be done immediately, and these are the times that we should call on those who are in a position to handle this special work. Being in business so many years and known all over this part of the country, for having in stock, for immediate use, the largest amount of funeral merchandise obtainable, and at prices very

Freedom of the press is so precious to this nation that a newspaper would be remiss in its public duty if it did not vigorously resist any move that remotely implied an infringement of that liberty. That is why the St Louis Star-Times spoke up so strongly in answer to a Post Office Department warning that the newspaper's RECEIVING LINE AT WEDDING July 17 issue, as well as some national magazines, should ceiving line at a wedding reception have been barred from the mails for carrying the report and in what order? of a lottery that made news.

Honoring Our War Dead

(By Holmes Alexander)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 16,-In seamless, flag-draped caskets the first of America's war dead will arrive home next month for reburial as requested by the next of kin.

The first bodies down the gangplank at San Francisco on October 10 will be those of men killed at Pearl Harbor. Among the 6000 bodies arriving at New York harbor on October 25 will be those of men who died in the North Atlantic service. Thus, those who fell earliest and closest to the country they were defending are the first to come back.

Deserve Credit And Gratitude The fitness, delicacy and efficiency with which the Department of the Army in general and Brig. Gen. George A. Horkan in particular have handled the whole problem of the war dead are deserving of credit and gratitude. The decencies of embalmment, casketing, burial and memorial services are among the privileges that go with our victory, living standards and form of government. So much is to be expected. But it is gratifying to know that care, tenderness and real reverence were shown the men who died so far from their own homes and family cemeteries.

It happens that I had a personal experience which allows me to testify to this effect. Next to kin often add to their natural grief by imagining that because the Army handled many dead bodies it handled them indifferently or callously. On the contrary, there was in the midst of war a real sense of devotion and responsibility on the part of the Graves Registration personnel.

Because of the misconceptions which still exist and because Gen. Horkan has requested aid in spreading correct information in advance of the home-coming bodies, I shall give the remaining space to questions most generally raised about the subject of the war dead.

Some Facts On Situation

How are bodies identified? The standard methods are the presence of two identification tags which all servicemen were required to wear. coffee that were truly "good to the Laundry marks, dental work, clothing and personal effects are also used as checks. But none of these is considered conclusive proof in the I shall go right into telling you presence of contradictory evidence.

Does the Army admit mistakes in identification? There are several such cases on record. Next of kin can feel certain that they have the Ed Gallagher, publisher of the latest and best available information. There is no temptation for the Laconia, N. H. Evening Citizen, had Army to build up its figures on "known" as against "unknown" dead. made me promise him, when he was Graves Registration personnel are not rewarded for identification work.

All Receive Proper Burial

If a lost relative is listed among the "unknown" dead, does that mean he did not receive proper burial? Both known and unknown dead receive the same treatment. It is standard procedure.

If a body is allowd to remain abroad, will it lie permanently under former enemy soil? The overseas dead are being transferred from 120 temporary cemeteries, many in former enemy countries, to 16 permanent Being a plain, run-of-the-mill World War II cemeteries, all of which are in allied countries. No body is casketed until (a) an American embalmer has verified the identification and (b) an Army inspector has catified that the body-handling took place under his immediate supervision. Two - Week Registration Drive Calculated To Boost Party Strength

HARRISBURG, Sept. 15 .- (INS) -The general election campaign was spurred Monday by a two weeks long registration drive calculated to boost party strength in preparation for balloting November 4.

September 29 will be the last day to register before the election, according to the state elections bu-

It was estimated unofficially that Republicans would finish the drive with approximately 2,500,000 registered voters and Democrats with about 1,500,000. There were approximately 4,600,000 Pennsylvanians eligible to participate in the 1946 senatorial and gubernatorial ballot-

The November election probably will be highlighted by two special elections to fill a vacancy in the state house of representatives and another in the senate. In addition, scores of county judicial and municipal offices will be filled.

There were indications that Senate President Pro Tempore M. Harvey Taylor would certify a vacancy in the 17th (Lebanon-Lancaster) senatorial district where the late Sen. Clarence D. Becker (R) held sway for more than six years prior his death August 27

House Case Similar A similar certification was antici caused by the death of Rep. Harry E. Trout (R) in the second legislative district of Lancaster county Trout was an assemblyman for 14 years prior to his death August 5. Both vacancies occurred too late to be included on the primary elec tion ballot. The Trout vacancy may be certified as one the last official acts of House speaker Franklin H. Lichtenwalter of Center Valley, Republican congressman-elect from the eighth (Bucks-Lehigh) district.

The 37-year-old speaker, who will be succeeded by Majority Leader Herb P. Sorg of St. Marys, campaigned as an endorser of the Taft-Hartley labor-curbing law and was elected by a margin of 17,000 votes over his Democratic opponent, Philip H. Storch, Allentown newspaperman and an opponent of the controversial measure.

The general election will be highlighted by a state superior court between Republican Judge John S. Fine of Nanticoke, appointed to the appellate bench June 17 | by Gov. James H. Duff, and Cambria County Judge Ivan J. McKenrick, Democrat, of Ebensburg. Both were unopposed in the primary.

ANNOUNCING TWO GREAT NEW All.in. One HEARING AIDS

To fit the personal hearing needs of anyone who can be helped by a Hearing Aid

If you can be helped at all by a hearing aid, Western Electric has a great new all-in-one set to give you more complete hearing satisfaction. See-try-hear the one that's right for you!

Compact Model 65—newly designed for the majority of the hard of hearing

All-in-one Model 65 is particularly effective in the conversational hearing range. It weighs but six ounces, including self-contained batteries. And it's only 41/3 inches long-shorter than most fountain pens. Economy? You can operate Model 65 at less than one cent an hour-a new low in operating cost for a one-piece hearing aid.

Amazing New Super 66—for those who demand finest possible performance

All-in-one Super 66 is designed for those whose hearing impairment is severe-who need maximum power, fidelity, and amplification in a hearing aid. Of all the hearing aids ever tested at the world-famous Bell Telephone Laboratories, none could equal the all-round excellence which Super 66 offers you. You'll really hear the difference with this magnificent all-inone instrument.

Both these remarkable instruments offer you these exclusive advantages: 1. SHOCK-ABSORBING MICROPHONE 2. MOISTURE-SEALED CONSTRUCTION 3. HIGH FIDELITY AIR OR BONE CONDUCTION 4. SPECIAL NOISE-REDUCING CASE 5. BELL TELEPHONE LABORATORIES DESIGN AND WESTERN ELECTRIC PRECISION MANUFACTURE

PULLETS REQUIRE CAREFUL HANDLING

Special management is required by poultrymen at the time new pullets are housed, in order to avoid setbacks affecting health and production. Fowls going indoors from range undergo a complete change of environment and, unless comfort is assured, sudden drops in production will result.

In order to avoid setbacks at housing time, the following suggestions are offered:

1. Handle pullets carefully to

1. Handle pullets carefully to avoid injury and unnecessary fright.
2. Make changes in environmental conditions as gradual as possible.
3. Keep feed consumption increasing so body weight increases and production holds up.

4. Grade pullets according to physical development and maturity toward egg production.

5. Watch ventilation to prevent colds developing.

6. Be regular in daily chores so pullet needs are met and so that they become tamed to the presence of the caretaker.

Offer Sweeping New Ethics Code For Radio In U.S.

-(INS)-A sweeping new code of ethics for American radio, limiting the length of commercials, narrowing the field of advertisers and raising program standards was laid down Monday for approval by the American Association of Broadcast-

Adoption of the proposed standards following membership discussion is scheduled for tomorrow at the 25th annual convention of the NAB which opened today. Nearly 3,000 radio executives, representing the four major networks and most of the independent-stations, are Divided into three major sections, the proposed new standards of practice deal with overall programming standards for specific programs, and commercial policies,

Limit Commercials

Differentiating between daytime and night time broadcasting, the commercial section proposes to limit commercial time in any 15minute segment to a basic three minutes and also provides that the maximum commercial time allowable to any single sponsor, regardless of type of program, should be as follows:

After 6 p. m. and Sundays: 5 minute program, 1 minute commercial; 10 minute, 2 minutes; 15 minutes, 21/2 minutes; 25 minutes, two and threequarter minutes; 30 minutes, 3 minutes; 45 minutes, 41/2 minutes; one

Before 6 p. m.: 5 minute program, 1 minute of commercial; 10 minutes, 2 minutes: 15 minutes, 2 minutes and 40 seconds; 30 minutes, 4 minutes; 45 minutes, 51/2 minutes; one hour, 7 minutes. In addition all multiple-sponsorship programs such as participation shows, announcement programs, musical clocks, and the like, which have previously been treated more leniently, would fall under the three-minute limitation provision for any 15-minute segment of time Other Limitations

Other proposed limitations would continue to make unacceptable any advertising of "hard" liquors, occultism, fortune-telling, mind-reading and the like, matrimonial agencies, "dopester" tip-sheet or race track publications, all forms of speculative finance, and others.

The proposed standards also specify that broadcasters should not permit programs designed to "buy' he radio audience, and to influence listeners to tune in a station in the hopes of a reward rather than for the quality of the program offered.

The proposed document also suggests the elimination of so-called "cowcatcher" and "hitch-hiker" commercials, devoted at beginnings and ends of network programs to the sponsor's subsidiary products.

In a section devoted to crime and mystery programs, 11 recommendations are made as to the contents of these shows. However, the code fails to mention anything similar to the resolution adopted by the National Broadcasting Co. at its convention here last Saturday, which calls for a ban of such programs before 9:30 p. m.

It was emphasized that the code drafted during the past year by a 17-man committee of active broadcasters representing widespread interests and areas, under the policy guidance of NAB President Justin Miller, is not intended to relieve broadcast station licensees of responsibility for their program.
